Polls open 7 - 7 Tuesday for election

BY DENA BISNETTE
The polls will be open from

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Tuesday, with voters to decide on everything from a U.S. president down to whether the county superintendent of education should be appointed or elected.

Precinct locations are the same as for the last county election, Hancock County Election Commission Charles Gottschalk said. A list of those locations appears on front of Section C of The Sea Coast Echo, along with sample ballots.

Gottschalk said the elections expected to generate the most local interest are the two special elections for supervisor, which will replace two supervisors who resigned after "Operation Pretense" convictions.

There are 12 candidates running for Beat Three supervisor and nine people running for Beat Four supervisor.

Beat Four supervisor.

Beat Three candidates include Lloyd Anderson, Hilda
L. Bourg, Lisa LeBon Cowand, Florence C. Gorman, James J. Kasper, Margaret Ladner, Roger Joe Ladner, Howard Lizana, Clifton Saucier, Charles C. Scianna, Keith Shaw and W.B. (Bili) Whitfield.

The nine candidates the Beat Four race has attracted include Albert D. Biehl III, Martin A. DeSalvo Jr., James E. Drummond, Harry J. Farve, Billie Fay Lyons, Jim Odom, Kelvin (Big E) Schulz, Wilmer E. Seymour and John W. Wilkerson.

Local races in the general election include two school board posts and all five election commission seats.

In Beat Three, incumber

Carol Bustetter will face Louie M. Ladner and Johnnie Richard for the school board seat. Kay L. Sones is unopposed in Beat

For the first time, under a State Attorney General's opinion on new legislation, the school board candidates are running only in the beats they will represent and not county-wide, so only the Beat Three and Four voters will be involved.

Three of the five incumbent election commissioners are unopposed, including James A. (Jimmie) Ladner Jr. in Beat One, Betsy Nolan in Beat Three and Eugene Dillmann in Beat Four. In Beat Two, incumbent Francis L. Lee is opposed by Sandra Garber, and in Beat Five Gottschalk is opposed by

ABSENTEE VOTING—The Hancock County Circuit Court clerk's office was busy with qualified electors voting absentee Saturday for Tuesday's General and Special Elections. Those voting absentee from left, Kenneth A. Durbin, Cedar Point; Ben F. Doss, Diamondhead; and Helen Smith, Diamondhead. Karen Ruhr, chief deputy Circuit clerk, witnesses the voters signatures. Durbin is a railroad worker and Smith a student at the University of South Alabama. The Circuit clerk's office will be open next Saturday morning for absentee voting if necessary for run-off elections expected in the two Board of Supervisors races. Ruhr reported a record number of absentee ballots were cast by Hancock Countians for Tuesday's elections. Polls on Tuesday are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. A Sample Ballot and Voting Precinct locations is published on Page 1, Section C of this issue of The Sea Coast Echo. School probation: cleared, academic rating highest

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Hancock County School System, along with four other Coast school districts, has been put on probation by the Mississippi Commission on School Accreditation, according to a report last week.

The commission cited Hancock because of a teacher certification problem, overcrowding in several classrooms. It also claimed the school board did not formally adopt curriculum guidelines.

"Everything has been taker care of except the overloader classrooms. But we are now waiting to hear from the Exceptions Committee about them. We only have one or two students over the limits in two classes and expect to get an exception with no problem.

Lawsuit could stop school board elections

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County School
Board and the Hancock County Election Commission have been named as defendants in a lawsuit alleging that the current school board members failed to comply with proper procedures for the Nov. 8 school board seat elections.

The suit, filed in Hancock County Circuit Court Friday, is scheduled for a hearing at 9:30 a.m. Monday before Judge Jerry O. Terry, Court Administrator Gail Parker said.

tor Gail Parker said.

The suit was filed by Johnnie Richard, currently a candidate for the Beat Three school board seat; J.T. Newkirk; D.H. Martin and J.C. Seal.

They are asking that the elections be stopped.

The suit's allegations are based on House Bill 1127, enacted during the 1988 Session of the Mississippi Legislature.

The legislation provides that "The board of supervisors of any county, upon the request of the county school board, shall provide by order entered on its minutes, that each member of the county board of education for such county shall be elected from and shall be a resident and a qualified elector in a special district" and repealed the statutory authority for the at-large election in which the current board members were chosen.

The election commission, acting on an opinion from its attorney, has already agreed that the Beat Three and Four elections regularly scheduled for Nov. 8 would be by district and not countywide.

However, Election Commission Attorney Gerald Gex has stated that the supervisor districts are being used because there was no time before the election to create new school board districts and pre-clear them with the U.S. Department of Justice under the Voting Rights Act, basing his opinion on a letter from Special Assistant Attorney General Giles W. Bryant.

The plaintiffs are alleging that correct procedure for compliance with House Bill 1127 is for the Hancock County School Board to ask the board of supervisors for an order requesting proper action by the election commission; that the school board was asked to provide such a request and that the "defendants either wholly failed or refused to comply with the law."

The suit charges that the election commission has scheduled the election of the two school board members by supervisors' districts and that those districts are not properly apportioned by either race or population, nor determined through any logical or reasonable formula for providing equal representation in all five beats.

In addition, the suit charges that the voters of the school district are being deprived of their 14th and 15th amendments rights and that the school board should immediately ask the supervisors for the establishment of properly apportioned board of education districts.

The plaintiffs feel that to proceed with the Nov. 8 election under present conditions would cause voters to "suffer immediate and irreparable injury" and that the two school board elections should be stopped.

Hancock County Election Commission Chairman Charles Gottschalk said the election equipment, already filled with the ballots, is to be distributed to precincts the same morning as the hearing. If the election is halted, the school board ballots may not be counted, but at this point they can not be removed from the voting machines.

Perhaps by making a 'FreshStart."

Hancock Medical Center and the American Cancer Society will sponsor a smokers' group support program to help them "unlearn" their smoking beha-vior. "FreshStart" will be held Nov. 7, 9, 14 and 16 at Hancock Medical Center.

The program beings at 6:30 each night and consists of four one-hour group sessions in a two-week period, the last session being the day before the Great American Smokeout:

Nov. 17.
"Although the majority of smokers quit on their own without using clinics or classes, we have found that a sizable number need the added support and structure a group can offer," said Phylis Moran, area director of the American Cancer society.

The classes are designed to help smokers identify some of the reasons they smoke and anticipate and prepare for difficulties in quitting.

For more information about future "FreshStart" programs, call Hancock Medical Center at 467-9081 or the American Cancer Society.

I thought I was getting junk mail when I went through my they can visit for a minute or mailbox and found a half-dozen circulars, pizza coupons, two catalogs for stuff I never buy, a postcard ad for a sale at a Hattiesburg store where I used to shop and a charity organization's plea for donations--all before I found my water bill.

I thought my sister Donna, who works in a casual wear boutique in Laurel, was getting junk mail when she told me about the catalogs her shop gets. The store is part of a chain and does not handle its own purchasing, but she's been sent catalogs with dresses priced by the dozen-one dozen of one style, all in one color.

I never knew what junk mail really was, however, until my editor Janet McQueen went on vacation this past week. To help out, I took over some of her chores, including editing the mail.

We get lots of outside material, meaning items not written by our own staff, for publication in The Sea Coast Echo. Some is brought in or sent by local people, like Virginia Thomas, who drops off the St. Ann's Church news, or Katy Caire, who has been writing a cooking column for us for many years.

The good stuff, meaning the easiest items to edit, are typed double-spaced with the contributor's phone number in case we have any questions, and all the people in the photographs (anything but dark polaroids. which won't reproduce at all,) are identified from left to right with careful attention to spelling of names.

Then there is the equally important but hard-to-edit news that the well-meaning contributors have written by hand, or they have forgotten to leave a phone number in case we can't read a name. We love all these people and thank each and every one for their help in filling the newspaper with the kind of community information a small newspaper should provide.

When these folks come in, two because we all know each other. That folksy touch is definitely lost when you deal with a faceless piece of mail.

The mail Janet gets is presorted by our publisher, Ellis Cuevas, who takes longer at the post office and sorting mail in the morning than most people who work there. That's probably because he comes back with a bundle of stuff that would fill a lawyer's bookcase in less than a week if we let it pile up.

He takes out what needs to go to bookkeeping, payroll, circulation and so forth, then provides Janet with a stack that averages six inches.

We get short items from ETV. Public Radio in Mississippi and military services. We get news from all three major universities, a few other colleges and the local community colleges, not to mention their sports departments, which seem to be entities unto themselves; once every season, they even send us a nice, fancy media guide with lots of colored pictures and statistics.

We get announcements from local and coastwide organizations about meetings and programs they've had or plan to have. We get meeting agendas and honor rolls from local schools and announcements from businesses about grand openings or an employee's latest new certification. We get all kinds of good, usable information.

We also get stuff that's virtually free advertising for the people sending it, or stuff from parts of Mississippi where maybe one person with relatives in Hancock County reads our paper and the rest have never heard of it. Sometimes we get mail that's supposed to have gone to The Jasper County News in Bay Springs; our newspaper's only connection with that area, other than the similarity in the names of the towns, is very remote-I first met my sister-in-law LaJuan when she worked at Jasper County News. (It's a good thing I liked her.)

*EXPERIENCED IN

MANAGEMENT

Most mailed-in news items have dates--some events are already over before the announcements get here. Sometimes we get three press releases on the same thing. Sometimes we get group pictures without names when there's somebody local in there and we'd rather know who's who, but he hasn't lived here in years so we don't know what he looks like now.

Since I'm also a student and am always being given loose papers by my professors, I like the folders we get-they are often big, fancy presentations great for a daily paper that can publish all five releases and all four pictures, but impractical for us because we only publish twice a week, Anyway, I never have to buy a folder and instead of being plain manila mine all have neat logos like NASA, DuPont and South Central Bell. I found a couple of maps and a poster too. The junk mail list goes on and on. Janet, reading your mail has been a real adventure this past week, but on a permanent basis, thanks, but I think I get enough junk mail at home.

ELECT MARGARET LADNER

SUPERVISOR DISTRICT 3 HANCOCK COUNTY

Paid political advertisement submitted to approved & subscribed by Margaret Ladner.

ELECT

HOWARD LIZANA

Supervisor - District 3 on Tuesday, Nov. 8th

I worked hard to see each of you last election and received a good vote of confidence. I will work hard to get the most and best for our tax dollars, to support and upgrade all our roads and all county functions, and to get more industry and businesses to locate in Hancock County to have more jobs for our local people.

I was the only candidate in the race who was interested enough to run last election. I put up some signs last year, and after the election, I took all of my signs down and will do so again this year, win or lose. I'd rather you get to know me through personal contact rather than by my name on would like to thank each one of you for your kindness. Shown to me during this campaign. I will be a good conscientious and honest supervisor.

Your Support and Vote Will Be Appreciated!

HANCOCK COUNTY

This Tuesday, November 8, the voters of Hancock County will b given an opportunity to elect people to represent them in a political office. I am serving my sixth and final year on the Hamoodk County, School Board as a Beat 4 representative. I have tiled very hard in those six years to help anyone who asked. Teachers, si parents, businessmen from all over the county asked for and i enthusiastic support for their needs. Now I am asking you for your support and vote to elect me to the office of Hancock County Beat 44 Supervisor.

I stand firm in my beliefs that the decisions I have made the past six a years were for the benefit of all the people. I researched and studied all items involved before I made those decisions.

My family and I have worked hard to reach as many voters as possible through posters, newspaper ads and walking many miles in the evenings and on weekends. Even in doing this, it is impossible to meet and talk to every voter in beat 4.

I am trying to offer the people of Hancock County not only my many years of experience in the business world, but a person just like yourself, who is interested in the future improvements of Hancock County that will benefit all of those who like to live and work here.

I ask again for your vote on Tuesday, November 8, 1988.

is important to vote Tuesday

Tuesday is a very important day for Americans, as we will be electing our president and vice-president for the next four years.

It is a day all qualified electors should exercise their voting rights by casting a ballot for the candidate of their choice.

This is a general election, so a voter has the right to vote for candidates of the same party or split their ballot by voting for candidates of different parties.

In our area of Mississippi we will also be electing a senator to represent us for the next six years. This is a very important choice for Mississippians, as the incumbent, Honorable John C. Stennis has held the office for over 40 years.

Senator Stennis' retirement leaves some big shoes to be filled and we hope you will select the candidate who can most ably fill that vacancy.

We will also be filling a position on the Mississippi Supreme Court for the 2nd Southern District.

Also, we will be selecting be a U.S. Congressman to represent the Fifth District, who will be serving us for the next two years. This is a very important choice, which deserves the serious consideration of every registered voter.

The Congressional spot has been building up to a very interesting race, and we hope the electorate will select the person who is the best qualified to serve not only our best interests, but those of the nation.

On a county basis, Mississippians will be voting for or against the Unit System of County Adminstration. This issue will be decided on a county by county basis.

Persons voting in county school districts will decide whether they want to abolish the selection of school superintendents of education through the elective process and to allow for their appointment by the local school boards. This we are told will be decided on a statewide vote.

On Hancock County's scene, District Three and Four Board of Supervisors positions will be filled. With nine candidates in one race and a dozen in the other, there should be a run-off to settle the outcome in both.

With so many candidates running, this amplifies the importance of everyone's vote, because it will not take too many votes to gain a run-off position.

There are three candidates for county school board seat in District Three to be filled (that is if the suit filed Friday doesn't stop the election), and this is a very important position at local level.

In District Two and Five, qualified electors will select an Election Commissioner. Each race has two candidates.

There are three Election Commissioners and one school board post with no opposition.

It is hoped you will be sure to vote on Tuesday.

Remember every vote does count!

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Talk about seeing Pink, I was really seeing pink on Friday when I visited the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club to take photos of Awards Day for the Hancock Medical Center's Pink Ladies.

The event involved the installation of new officers and the award of Hospital Volunteer Service Pins, 300 Hour Charms, and 500 Hour Charms to members.

The organization has now grown to over 60 members from about seven in February, 1987, when the hospital moved to its new location.

The lucheon was sponsored by Hancock Medical Center and Phil Wolfe, administrator expressed a big thank you to the Pink Ladies for the many hours of volunteer service they give to the hospital.

We would also like to express our thanks to the HMC Pink Ladies for their volunteer time and effort they extend to our hospital and its patients.

Veterans Day to be observed

Veterans Day 1988 will be celebrated Friday, Nov. 11, according to Jackson VA regional office director Jeff R. Ryker.

He said, "While the Veterans Administration embodies the spirit of Veterans Day year-round, it is on this special day that all Americans can gather to voice our thankfulness and appreciation."

Ryker urged Americans to pay tribute to the more than 27 million living veterans who have served their country in uniform, and to the more than one million who died during wartime service.

The annual Veterans Day ceremony at the War Memorial Building in Jackson is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. After taps is sounded at 11 a.m., more than 100 ex-prisoners of war will be presented special POW Medals by the adjutant general of the Mississippi National Guard, Major General Arthur J. Farmer.

The observance of Veterans Day goes back to 1921 when an American soldier—"his name known but to God"—was buried in Arlington National Cemetery. The burial site of this unknown World War I soldier became the personification of dignity and reverence for American veterans.

Many memorial gestures took place on Nov. 11, giving universal recognition to the celebrated ending of World War I hostilities at 11 a.m. Nov. 11, 1918—the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month. That day became know as "Armistice Dow"

Day."

If the idealistic hope had been realized, that World War I was "the war to end all wars,"

Nov. 11 might still be called Armistice Day—but shortly after the holiday was proclaimed, World War II broke out in Europe and shattered that dream.

More than 16 million Americans served during World War II and more than 400,000 died in service during that period. The families and friends longed for a way to honor their memory—to honor veterans of all wars

Legislation was introduced and in 1954 President Eisenhower signed the bill proclaiming Nov. 11 as Veterans Day, and he called for Americans everywhere to rededicate themselves to the cause of peace.

Additional significance was added to Veterans Day in 1958 when two more unidentified war dead—one from World War II and the other from the Korean Conflict—were brought to Arlington National Cemetery from overseas and buried beside the World War I soldier.

On Memorial Day 1984, an unidentified American War dead from the Vietnam War was interred alongside the other unidentified dead at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier,

Hazardous waste forum at Gulf Park

The Environmental Protection Council will hold a public informational meeting Nov. 9 on the Gulf Coast at which citizens are invited to voice their opinions about hazardous and solid-waste.

The public forum will be from 6-8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 9 in the Hardy Hall Auditorium of the Gulf Park Campus of The University of Southern Mississippi in Long Beach,

The Environmental Protection Council is composed of one Senator and one member of the House of Representatives from each Congressional District in addition to co-chairmen Senator Dick Hall of Jackson and Rep. Bruce Hanson of Columbus. The legislators representing the Fifth Congressional District are Senator Claude Bilbo of Pascagoula and Rep. Diane Peranich of Long Beach.

"We know that hazardous waste, infectious waste, and solid waste are all items of great concern to the people on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and we want to give the people of the area an opportunity to let their opinions on the issues be known," Hall said.

"The Environmental Protection Council will be recommending legislation to the Legislature in the 1989 Session regarding infectious waste regulation, and we are working on a federally-required plan that will detail how Mississippi intends to dispose of its hazardous waste over the next 20 years. We welcome suggestions from the people of the Coast," Hanson said.

The council will also hold its regular monthly meeting at the Hardy Hall Auditorium. On Nov. 9, the issues of infectious waste and the 20-year plan will be discussed as well as the question as to whether a state may limit how much waste may be brought in from other states for disposal.

On Nov. 10, Lee DiHihns with the Environmental Protection Agency office in Atlanta, will talk with the council about the 20-year plan. The public is invited to attend the business

During the evening forum, each person who wishes to speak is asked to sign a register before the meeting and will be limited to five minutes.

Support for unit system has been generous

I want to take the opportunity this week to thank all those who have helped in the long campaign for the county unit system.

From folks in the farthest reaches of our state to those in our largest cities, the unit system has received strong support. From county supervisors to our statewide elected officials, from Vicksburg Mayor Robert Walker to humorist Jerry Clower, support for the unit system has been generous.

Countless Mississippians have given their time and energy to this important issue. Unit system supporters should take great satisfaction in knowing that their hard work will make a real difference in peoples'

The unit system campaign has helped raise citizen awareness about a simple fact sometimes forgotten by public officials: Government can be made to work better, and that is often an alternative to cutting programs or raising taxes.

That is precisely what the unit system will do—help make government work better. And, it will help keep corruption from getting out of control.

Approving the unit system is a giant step for any county. It will give them the structure they need to effectively compete for jobs, improve education, support health care, protect the environment and plan for the 21st Century.

Government can be made to work better at all levels, and that is why I recently outlined my recommendations for streamlining and reorganizing state government.

Under this plan, 11 departments would be established at an estimated savings of $31.9 million. Each department would put—under one roof-related services currently scattered among various separate agencies. The result will be the more efficient delivery of services and tremendously improved planning and coordination.

Under this plan, state government will be more accountable and responsive to the people. Instead of dealing with numerous unelected boards, the Legislature and taxpayers can look to a relatively few key agency heads for results and performance by state agencies.

There are several outstanding examples of how the state can do more with less.

Under the newly reorganized state Department of Economic Development, the department will expand services at $300,000 below the $8.9 million for the current fiscal year with 15 fewer people.

And, under my recent recommendations for reorganizing state government, the $7 million saved by closing the state charity hospitals could be put into Medicaid. At a matching rate of $4 in Medicaid funds for every $1 in state funds, the state would have an additional $28 million to care for Mississippians.

Our resources are too precious, and our needs too great, for us not to reorganize the executive branch of state government. These improvements, along with those at the county level, mean nothing but good news for Mississippians.

Final consideration of unit system bill

This will be the final analysis of the unit system of county government before the Nov. 8 election when voters will have the opportunity to centralize the activities of their county government.

Once voters are inside the voting booth, there are some items that ought to be considered:

*A poll conducted by Mississippi State University indicates Mississippians favor the unit system over the beat system by a margin of 3-1.

*Tony Smith, president of the Copiah County Board of Supervisors, reported that since that county has implemented the unit system, he has reduced personnel almost 40 percent and auctioned off $160,000 worth or surplus equipment.

*During a 10-year period, Coahoma County, which operates under the unit system, spent $872,000 for the purchase of new road equipment. During the same 10-year period, Lauderdale County, which operates under the beat system, spent $1,775,000 for new road equipment.

*A group of independent CPAs examined the estimates submitted by supervisors on expected cost of switching to the unit system. They found the estimates of 50 of the 59 counties that turned in figures, to be exaggerated in an attempt by supervisors to mislead the voters.

*The unit system has been endorsed by a number of public officials including Governor Ray Mabus, Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye, Secretary of State Dick Molpus and Attorney General Mike Moore.

*The Mississippi Association of Educators has endorsed the unit system. With this endorsement, the unit system is now favored by the largest group of educators in the state, as well as the largest business organization in the state, the Mississippi Economic Council.

superintendents. The unit system referendum, required by the same legislation that created the new county purchasing procedures recently implemented, will be decided according to the individual counties and, where it passes, will require a countywide system of road administration. The other referendum is to be decided statewide, with all 82 counties to comply. If the referendum passes, the elected office of county superintendent of education will be abolished and the superintendents will be appointed by the county school boards.

However, only voters living in county school districts will participate. The item will not be included on the ballots placed in precincts located in city school districts.

There are three district races in the general election this time. Ed Pittman, a Democrat, will face John Henry Crouch, a Republican, for Supreme Court Judge, second district.

State Senator Gene Taylor, a Democrat from Bay St. Louis, is running against a Republican, Harrison County Sheriff Larkin Smith, for U.S. representative in the Fifth Congressional District.

That Congressional seat is being vacated by Republican Trent Lott, who is running against Democrat Wayne Dowdy for the U.S. Senate seat to be left vacant by retirement of John C. Stennis.

Although voters have heard mostly about the Democratic and Republican candidates for president and vice-president, they actually have five choices.

tatives entered the room. Student John Endom kept watch on the speakers' time while classmate Chad Matthews served as moderator. Panelists, asking questions they had gathered and screened before the debate, included C.J. Hazeur, Richard Gleber, Ben Schepens, John Baxter and Ian Campbell.

The two speakers began with a two minute opening statement on their candidates' platforms.

Formby described the Bush platform as being for "God, motherhood and apple pie" and patriotism.

Franckiewicz said his candidate's platform is similar. "We agree with God, motherhood and apple pie but we have disagreements on how to get there," he said.

The differences started showing as soon as one of the panelists asked where the candidates stood on raising taxes.

The solution is not to throw a big barrel of money at our problems," Formby said, explaining that Bush feels the country "needs to know not only what we've got but what we're spending it on" and is willing to cut back on bureaucracy.

Franckiewicz said Dukakis has found that although the country has a $2.3 trillion national debt, Reagan will be asking for his eighth budget deficit in January and that the Republican administration has simply not shown the leadership necessary to correct the

On the matter of Dukakis' veto of a Massachusetts bill that would have jailed teachers who did not force students to participate in the Pledge of Allegiance, Frankiewicz explained that his candidate saw the matter as an infringement on the right of free speech, which was the actual issue rather than the should be, and that Dukasis' action did not provide the opportunity for voluntary participation.

Dukakis' statements on gun control have been widely mis-quoted due to an allegedly fabri-cated quote printed in a gun magazine several years ago, Franckiwicz said. In essence, Dukakis is only against plastic guns that can not be found with metal detectors, Saturday night . specials and armored bullets known as "cop-killers," as well as the waiver of a seven-day waiting period for the purchase of regulated guns.

Formby responded by saying that because he is unfamiliar with Bush's position on gun control, he discussed the views of Lott, who as a Mississippian favors the ownership of guns for recreational use, but has difficulty determining where the line should be drawn regarding regulated guns.

The students asked Formby if Star Wars defense systems were to expensive and unamanageable. Formby responded that Star Wars, if properly managed, can not only be made to work but can also yield the same kind of side benefits that the space program has provided, such as better optics and purer chemicals.

Franckiewicz agreed that the research can be beneficial, but Dukakis is questioning how much money Star Wars takes away from conventional defense methods.

Asked about Bush's running mate Dan Quayle, Formby said, He's been picked on by the

Bays open again to bait shrimping

Beginning Monday at sun-rise live bait dealers will again be able to catch shrimp in inside waters according to an announcement made Friday by the Bureau of Marine Resources.

According to the announcement, Vernon Bevill, the executive director of the Commission of Wildlife Conservation authorized BMR to open bay waters to bait shrimpers as a result of sampling done by that Waters included in the opening are all saltwaters of the Bay of St. Louis north of the CSX Railroad bridge, all saltwater in Live bait shrimping will be permitted in these waters until Dec. 31 when shrimping season closes in Mississippi.

In may be closed at any time between now and then if the conditions warrant such action, according to BMR spokesman Chris Snyder.

Jailer rescues inmate prevents injury, damage

An alert jailer is being credited with preventing serious injury and damage in the Hancock County Jail Thursday night when a juvenile inmate set fire to mattresses in his cell.

Jailer Jerry Roberson pulled 7-year-old Jason Garcia of Pearlington from the cell after hearing the alarm of a smoke detector and seeing smoke coming from the second-floor cell area, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

"Terry did a good job of get-ting him out of there," Peterson

Mobile Medic and Bay firefighters responded to the call shortly before 8 p.m. Garcia, being held on rape charges, was transported to Hancock Medical Center where he was treated for smoke inhalation. He was returned to the jail later that night.

The fire is being considered a suicide attempt.

The extent of damages was confined to the two mattresses, each valued a $100, which Garcia apparently lit with matches he had for smoking cigarettes. He used magazines to get the fire started, according to the

Warriors waylay Hawks' record and title

BY D.C. HARVILL

Hancock North Central's hopes for an undefeated season and the Division 8 championship came to an inglorious end Friday night when they engaged in a helmet bashing contest with the d'Iberville Warriors and lost.

achaw stadium. Tiger head coach Bob Lumpkin knew if his offense could control the ball and keep it away from the Rocks high-powered offense that Bay High had antexcellent chance of winning the contest.

The Tigers executed their game plan almost to perfection, as the Tigers allowed the Rockachaw offense only sixplays the entire first half, and just three more in the third quarter.

It was SSC defensive coordinator Langy Ramsey's troops that spackled however, as they Senior defensive end Craig Sweeney seemed to be all over the field Friday night as he stripped the ball from Tiger running back Darrin Washington and raced 73 yards for St. Stanislaus' initial score with 10:22 left in the first half.

In the fourth quarter stunting linebacker David Alexander forced a Tiger fumble in the endzone which SSC cornerback Ken Booker fell on for the Rockachaw's final score of the evening.

The officials called a very tight game as 16 penalties totaling almost 200 yards were issued during the game.

Sweeney's 73 yard gallop put the Rocks on the scoreboard. but the Tigers blocked Scott Heitzmann's extra point try and SSC led 6-0.

Bay High began their next offensive possession at their 20 yard line, and used up over eight minutes of the second quarter in putting together an 80 yard drive capped by Washington's one yard sweep for the tying touchdown.

The Tigers elected to try for the two-point conversion, but an attempted halfback pass never materialized as linebacker Gary Ponthieux and Sweeney sacked the Tiger halfback for a loss.

With 3:29 left in the half, the score was knotted at 6-6.

After Bay High could not move the ball, Joel Duncan punted to Heitzmann who was run out of bounds on the Rocka-chaw 39 yard line.

Gino Ascani's two-point attempt sweeping left end was unsuccessful, and the Rocks took a 12-6 lead into the locker room at halftime.

Bay High got a big break early in the third quarter as Ascani could not find the handle on a pitchout and the Tigers recovered the fumble at the SSC 26 vard line.

Tiger running back Chuck Dorsey rambled to the 16 yard line, but the Rockachaw defense swarmed Mitchell as he attempted to pass.

The Bay High drive stalled, and Joel Duncan booted a 33 yard field goal to close the margain to 12-9 with 4:56 left in the third quarter.

A clipping penalty on the ensuing kickoff brought the Rocks back to their 12 yard line. The Tiger defense stiffened, and sacked Ascani on an attempted screen pass in his endzone for a safety.

Bay High now trailed by a single point, 12-11, going into the final quarter.

When the Tigers could not move the ball offensively, Duncan punted out of bounds on the SSC 5 yard line.

SSC began a 94 yard drive, highlighed by the hard running of fullback Vincent Bradley who broke up the middle for gains of 13, 18 and 11 yards.

The Tigers dug in and stopped the Rocks on the one yard line. Smith attempted a quarterback sneak on fourth down, only to be stopped inches short of the Tiger goal line. With 3:30 remaining in the game, the Tigers had possession but had to drive deep into SSC territory for Duncan to possibly attempt a winning field

"Don't skip a meal." If you skip breakfast or eat hardly any and

Office sets ary, civilian overseas mail schedule

For those with relatives in the armed services stationed overseas, and those who wish to mail holiday greetings and packages to others living in foreign countries, now is the time to plan for holiday mailings, according to Tom Hill, Bay St. Louis postmaster.

Parcels sent to military personnel in the Far East, Europe and Southeast Asia should have been mailed in October if shipped by surface mail, the least expensive form of shipment.

November is the month when most parcels shipped via Parcel Airlift Mail (PAL) should be sent. PAL packages are 'airlifted domestically to a gateway facility, then airlifted on a space available basis from the gateway to the APO (Army or Air Force Post Office).

Packages up to 30 pounds and 60 inches in combined length and girth may be sent by PAL. Mailers pay the regular third- or fourth-class Parcel Post rate, based on weight, to the U.S. exit port or from the port of entry plus a fee for air piece not mailed as SAM or PAL service.

The air service fee is 30 cents for parcels weighing two pounds or less, 60 cents for parcels weighing more than two pounds but not exceeding three pounds, 90 cents for parcels weighing more than three pounds but not exceeding four pounds, and $1.20 for parcels weighing more than four pounds but not exceeding thirty pounds.

November mailers can also ship military parcels by Space Available Mail (SAM). Items shipped by SAM are transported by surface means in the contiguous 48 states and flown on a space available basis from the U.S. to the overseas destination or from the overseas destination to the U.S.

Packages weighing 15 pounds or less and not exceeding 60 inches in combined length and girth may be sent by SAM for regular Parcel Post rates to the U.S. exit port or from the U.S. port of entry.

When mailed from a military post office outside the 48 contiguous states, the weight of any cannot be more than 70 pounds and the size cannot exceed 108 inches in length and girth combined.

The Postal Service said it also offers a new service for later mailing of holiday messages and parcels to military bases overseas. The new Express Mail Military Service is available to over 200 APO/FPO military addresses. The same rates as domestic Express Mail service apply for this two-day service: $8.75 for up to a half pound, $12 for up to two pounds and $15.25 for up to five pounds. The weight limit is 70 pounds.

For mailings to non-military addresses, the Postal Service's quickest method of shipping items abroad, Express Mail International Service, is available to 69 countries.

Here are suggested mailing dates to assure parcels and greetings will arrive on time. More information on international mailings is available from your post office window clerks.

"Now is the time to pay attention to mailing packages overseas to loved ones," says Sectional Center Manager/Postmaster Norman Dilley. "It is never to early to start your holiday mailings. However, if you have someone overseas who you want to receive a package, it's best to start your mailing even earlier to insure timely arrival for the holidays."

Wayne Dowdy for US Senate

"Wayne Dowdy has the talent and the ability—it takes both—to make an... outstanding United States Senator. Senator JOHN STENNIS

I have known Wayne Dowdy for several years and proudly endorse his candidacy for the United States Senate.

I would like to ask all of my friends in Hancock County to consider Wayne Dowdy for United States Senator. Congressman Dowdy's service to the Gulf Coast area of Mississippi as well as to the entire State of Mississippi has been invaluable.

Hancock County Sheriff RONNIE PETERSON

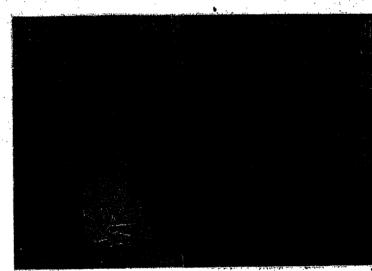

I have known Wayne Dowdy for over 20 years during which time he has served the people of Mississippi as a small town lawyer in McComb, as a Court Judge, as Mayor of McComb, and as a United States Congressman for Mississippi's Fourth Congressional District.

Wayne Dowdy is a good friend and for-mer class mate of mine. I have closely followed his voting record and personal service to the people of Mississippi as a Congressman and have found that he always puts Mississippi's interest first.

Please consider joining me in support-ing Wayne Dowdy for the United States

It might have been a dual sensory impairment, mental retardation, underdeveloped limbs or any of a number of birth defects or diseases, but suddenly the boy's parents were faced with the prospect of providing special care for him for the rest of his life-or theirs.

Most children leave home for college or to go to work after finishing high school, but not "Little Johnny."

He's always been taken care of by his family and friends," Wayne Fairley, director of the Southern Mississippi's Gulf Park sampus in Long Beach, said of a hypothetical family. "They (parents) put this wall around him." "He doesn't know how to go to the bank or pay his bills—all those little things everybody has to do. He may not have had much of a social life."

Typically, the parents take care of their disabled child well into his adulthood.

By then, "they can't take care of Little Johnny like they used to," Fairley continued. "Where's Little Johnny going to end up?" That's where ILCs can help,

We try to provide services to persons with disabilities, like peer counseling and (training in) personal hygiene, money management and self-

ILCs also help with attendant care, devices to assist those with misshapen or missing limbs, housing modifications like wheel chair ramps and widened doorways, daily living skills training, social counseling, therapeutic recreation and other services. We also assist with transportation for people who are on a limited income, and we work with local transit authorities to help (clients) find the transporation they need. You can provide all the services in the world, but if they can't get to them, they don't do any good," Fairley said.

The Gulf Coast ILC, which began some operations in October in office space provided by USM, is one of two new ones officially opening Nov. 1, with the help of state and federal funds. The other will be in Oxford's Midtown Shopping Center. Two more ILCs are tentatively planned in Hattiesburg and Starkville using U.S. Department of Education funding, which has supported the Jackson center since 1981 in its attempts to help disabled adults across Mississippi to become more independent.

Until recently, the Jackson site was the only one in the state, and Fairley anticipates being able to reach a much larger population with the new centers around the state.

We're not even (officially) open yet, and we have something like 45 cases," Fairley

Estimates indicate some 20,000 coastal people need the ILC's services, and Fairley said the new ILC at USM should make services much more accessible to Coastians.

As disabled people become more independent, there is a positive social and economic impact on the community, said Mark Smith an administrative assistant in the state Department of Rehabilitation Services yocational Rehabilitation division.

Some ILC clients become able to enter the work force, but most are too severely disabled, he said. the important benefits they will reap are increased freedom, a sense of accomplish-"selfand ment: advocacy"—learning how to obtain the rights they deserve and the services they need.

Fairley deals with personal disabilities, which resulted from an auto accident a month after he graduated from USM in 1979. He had planned to attend law school.

"It took me a good three years to get straightened out," he recalled. "If there had been a thing like this (the ILC), there's not telling what I could have

The South's forestsour nation's woodbasket

A survey of our Southern forests suggests that they are uniquely situated to become the wood basket" of the nation. We easily have the potential to supply our own lumber, board, pulp, and paper needs while also building a surplus to help satifsy rising national and worldwide demand for a wide range of forest products.

In many important respects, our southern forest land is unrivalled anywhere in the nation. Over half of our state of Mississippi is covered by trees. This amounts to approximately 17 million acres of woodlands.

The Southern forest ranks high in productivity, thanks to our temperate climate, favorable growing seasons, excellent soils and wealth of forest management expertise. As a result, the high productivity of our forests, though not at full potential yet, provides our timber industry with all the raw material volume it can useand then some.

The South has the highest concentration of forest industry mill capacity and employment of any region in the world. Since 1952, the merchantable size softwood inventory in Mississippi alone has more than doubled. These growth increases were possible in spite of increased harvesting during the same period.

On a nationwide basis in 1987 we planted roughly 12 trees for every American. The Harold Chance, manager of the Wal-mart Store, Waveland, announced at the grand opening Nov. 1 that the Hancock County Humane Society would be one of the employees' chosen charities. The Humane Society will receive all of the damaged bags of dog and cat food and kitty litter for the new shelter. Marilyn Bullington, assistant to Chance, is working with Thyla P. Rogers, president of the Humanem Society to plan and conduct fund-raising activities in the Wal-mart Store.

On Saturday, Nov. 12, the first event will be a contest for boys and girls between the ages of two and six to determine who can make the best animal imitations.

Wal-mart will give candy to all contestants and prizes to the winners. During the day, everyone who will buy a bag of dog or cat foor in the Wal-Mart Store and donates it to the Humane Society will be eligible to take a chance on a VCR donated by Wal-Mart.

Plans are also in the works for a December fundraiser in the store. The Humane Society's "Santa Paws" will set up in the garden area to have his picture taken with all the good little dogs and cats in the area. Time and particulars will be announced soon.
At all events, Wal-Mart will set up a booth for the Humane Society to receive donations, give information and accept new members.

WORKING FOR OUR FUTURE!

FUTURE - The Hancock County area expects a growth in population in the future that boggles the mind, it could be a new era of prosperity. It could make our city a better place to live and work. It could insure a pleasing future for our children. But that's a pipedream the way county government works. We're hardly keeping pace with the present. It can be a reality by putting a dynamic man with fresh ideas to work in county government.

Kelvin Schulz will do many things as your supervisor - but two points on his agenda are uppermost. 1. Improve county services now, 2. Plan for our future so that those county services can adequately meet the demands and growth of the future. Schulz will get it done.

Sisters of St. Joseph to celebrate jubilees

Six members of the Congregation of St. Joseph of Medaille, New Orleans and Baton Rouge-Southwest Regions, will cele-brate their jubilees at a Mass on Sunday, Nov. 20 at 3 p.m. in St. Frances Cabrini Church, New Orleans, followed by a reception in the Cabrini Parish Life Center. Rev. Douglas Doussan will be the presider. The public is invited to the Mass and the reception.

Observing their golden jubi-lees are sisters Louise Broussard, Gertrude Dupuy, Joseph Francis Glavan and Eileen Gordon. Sisters Joan Laplace and Sharon McCauley will celebrate their silver jubilees.

Sister Louise Broussard, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Broussard of Baton Rrouge, entered the congregation in 1936, professed first vows in 1938 and final vows in 1941. Sister holds a PhD from Loyola University is certified in library and Sister Louise has taught higher elementary grades in New Orleans schools, as well as the junior and high school levels in New Roads. She served as principal at St. Ann and St. Rose of Lima Schools in New Orleans and at Sacred Heart in Grand Coteau.

In 1964, she joined the staff at St. Joseph Academy, New Orleans, as librarian, after which she served as educational TV coordinator at St. Frances Cabrini School in New Orleans.

Since a sabbatical year in 1986, Sister Louise has been and continues in community service at St. Joseph Convent in New Orleans. Sister Gertrude Dupuy daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Enos G. Dupuy, was born Marie Louise Dupuy in New Orleans. She entered the novitiate in 1938, professed first vows in 1941 and final vows in 1943.

Sister received her BS in education from Loyola University, New Orleans, and has graduate credits in both guidance and new math.

Sister Gertrude's teaching ministry began in Baton Rouge in 1941 at St. Joseph's Academy and St. Joseph Parochial School. In 1950, she came to Our Lady of the Rosary School in New Orleans, where she taught for four years, returning again in 1961 as superior, a member of the Provincial Council and religion teacher.

Other teaching assignments were at Guardian Angels, Cincinnati, Ohio; St. Rita, Harahan and St. Rosek, New Orleans; Our Lady of the Gulf, Bay St. Louis Mississippi, and the Sisters of St. Joseph School, New Orleans. Sister Gertrude served in the office at St. Joseph Academy in New Orleans from 1977 to 1980. At present, she is teaching at St. Frances Cabrini School, New Orleans.

Sister Joseph Francis Glavan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mark Glavan, was born Eurilda Frances Glavan in Biloxi. She entered the congregation in 1936, made her first profession of vows in 1938 and her final vows in 1942. Sister holds a BS in education from Loyola University, New Orleans.

Sister Joseph Francis has taught in Cincinnati, Ohio and several cities in Louisiana, including Baton Rouge and Grand Coteau. In New Orleans she taught at St. Joseph Academy, Our Lady of the Rosary, the Sisters of St. Joseph School and St. Frances Cabrini

School. During the 1940's and 1950's, she coached volleyball, basketball and baseball at St. Joseph's Academy and St. Joseph Parochial School in Baton Rouge and won more than 15 state basketabll championships. Sister studied Gregorian chant at Loyola University and was choir director at St. Joseph School in Baton Rouge. She also trained students from 4th to 8th grades to serve as organists while she directed the choir at Our Lady of the Rosary School in New Orleans.

Recently, Sister Joseph Francis celebrated 50 years of teaching in Catholic education and was honored as the outstanding religious educator by St. Frances Cabrini School, where she teaches at this time.

Sister Eileen Gordon, born Kathleen L. Gordon in New Orleans, one of nine children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Gordon, entered the congregation in 1936. She professed first vows in 1938 and final vows in 1941. Sister received a BS in education from Athenaeum of Ohio and is certified in library science from Loyola University, New Orleans.

Sister Eileen's primary ministry has been in education, having taught from 1937 to 1968 at St. Thomas More and Sacred Heart Schools in Baton Rouge; St. Rose of Lima and Our Lady of the Rosary Schools in New Orleans, as well as schools in Bay St. Louis and Cincinnati.

She has served as librarian at Bro. Martin High School, St. John Prep and St. Agnes, New Orleans, and as receptionist in the provincial office. Sister is librarian at Stuart Hall School in New Orleans.

Sister Joan Laplace, daughter of the late Leo Paul Laplace and Ethel Fove Laplace of New Orleans, was born in Almirante, Panama and entered the novitiate in 1960.

She professed first vows in 1963 and final vows in 1969. Sister Joan received a BS from Loyola University, New Orleans and a MEd from Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

CELEBRATE JUBILEES—Six members of St. Joseph of Medaille, New Orleans and Baton Rouge-Southwest Resgions will celebrate their jubilees at a Mass on Sunday, Nov. 20. Those to celebrate jubilees are standing from left, Sisters Joan Laplace, Gertrude Dupuy, Louise Broussard and Eileen Gordon; sitting, Sharon McCauley and Joseph Francis Glavan. Sisters Gertrude and Eileen taught at St. Joseph's Academy in Bay St. Louis.

Sister Joan's ministry has been primarily in education. From 1964 to 1979 she served at St. Joseph's Academy, Baton Rouge, in various capacities: as teacher, counselor, assistant principal, and principal from August 1968 to June 1979.

In the summer of 1979, she became development director for St. Joseph Academy in New Orleans, returning to Baton Rouge in 1980 to undertake the same position at the Academy there. She holds this position at the present time. For many years Sister Joan also served as local coordinator for her community in Baton Rouge.

Sister Sharon McCauley. daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McCauley Sr., was born in Fort Worth, Texas. She entered the novitiate in 1960, made her profession of first yows in 1963 and her final yows in 1969. She received a BA in elementary education and social studies from St. Mary's Dominican College, New Orleans.

KEITH SHAW SUPERVISOR DISTRICT 3

To the voters of District 3 - Election day is almost here. I sincerely hope each and every one of you have stopped and carefully thought about who would be the best person for this position.

Many people may see me as the common working man that I am. I feel like we as the major y of the people are hard-working citizens that want to make Hane ock County a better place to live. I want to be common-enough to meet the needs of people from all walks of life, yet qualified enough to handle all the demands that come with making the right decisions for the citizens of Beat Three. In the past months of my campaign, I have met many nice people, and I hope my visit with you has convinced you that I am qualified, honest and capable of being your next supervisor. I do regret not having the chance to meet every voter personally. I will show my appreciation of your votes if elected by being your fulltime supervisor who is dedicated to serving all the people.

Thank you, Keith Shaw

ELECT JOHN WILKERSON SUPERVISOR BEAT 4

Dear Voters

As a candidate for Supervisor Beat Four, I have tried to visit with each of you. This is almost an impossible task. I will try during the next week to contact as many as possible either in person or by telephone.

I am writing this letter in case I miss you. I want to be sure that every voter in Beat Four knows who I am and what I stand for. I stand for better schools, better government, and a cleaner, healthier, and more prosperous county. I also stand ready to serve the people of Beat Four with understanding and availability. I may not always be in a position to solve your problem, but I'll give it my best shot. I will always be available to listen and return your calls. I will see that every call is followed up and you will be advised of the results. I will stay in touch with the people of Beat Four.

Good government requires cooperation with fellow supervisors and the public. I have always cooperated with my fellow workers and I would like an opportunity to work for the people of Beat Four and all of Hancock

Please go to the polls on November 8...this Tuesday-...and elect JOHN WILKERSON. He'll be YOUR man in the courthouse.

"Well, Gilbert has really become a monstrous hurricane. There is nothing we can do now but pray that he will miss us."

With few variations of words, the same prayer, song and dance can be heard whenever there is an impending danger which threatens to injure or wipe out great numbers of people.

It was a throwback to the morning of Aug. 17, 1969 when a meteorologist in New Orleans stood analyzing the path of the deadly hurricane, Camille. After admitting that no recourse but prayer remained, he practically cheered when the storm finally sidestepped New Orleans and took dead aim at Bay St. Louis.

Naturally, the people in Bay St. Louis did not take kindly to that at all. That kind of prayer, I am certain, not even God understands. How can you pray in good conscience that a storm miss you when that means in effect that it must hit someone

"I wish the infernal thing would go straight up!" someone

Unfortunately, that event is quite impossible. On the other hand, once a howling, counterclockwise monster enters the Gulf of Mexico, it cannot exit without clobbering some shoreline area.

Therefore, practically speaking, what does it mean when we pray that we will be spared from hurricanes and other calamities, especially when one is already bearing down on us?

Does it mean that we are asking God to guide the steering currents of the hurricane, thus tracing its path surely and securely away from us and from what belongs to us? If that were our intent, how could God spare everyone on the Gulf Coast?

If everyone on the Gulf Coast said this same prayer with great humility and fervor, God would obviously be in a terrible bind, since, as we have observed, there is no way for a hurricane to get out of the Gulf without paying some a devastating visit.

Would it, then mean that God should maneuver the hurricane in such a manner that it would do the least damage possible? This scenario would undoubtedly have the hurricane rush through the least populated area of the coastline, such as Matamoros, Mexico.

While that part of Mexico is indeed sparsely populated, we can be sure that the natives took a dim view of whatever kind of prayer which would direct Gilbert the monster tow-

By now, it must be evident to all of us that God is not in the weather business. In fact, God obviously created nature with its wondrous laws, then turned the universe loose to work itself

Naturalists are even telling us that natural upheavals such as hurricanes are necessary in order to correct, adjust and stabilize the formidable forces within the realm of nature.

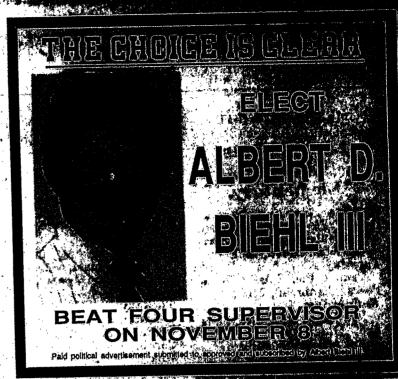

Further, innumerable praya ers of petition, emanating from over 5 billion of us, are so complex and often so contradictory to one another that not even the wisdom of God can sort them

We can hardly infer anything else from all this than the glaring observation that the form and content of many of our prayers leave much to be desired. In fact, they are often irrational.

Hurricanes, earthquakes and tornadoes force us to remember the dictum, "There's no atheist in a storm." That thought, painfully true for the most part, embraces both a faith deepest inset in our human nature and a loathsome selfishness toward God.

If you can believe this, our prayer before, or during, a hurricane, as all our other prayers, should begin with thanks to God for sun, rain, wind and all. After thanks and praise, we might ask God to help us use our faculties to save ourselves and ours.

Smith to be featured at arboretum

John Allen Smith of Homochitto Outdoors, wildflower enthusiast and weaver of split oak baskets, will appear Saturday, Nov. 12 from 2-4 p.m. at Pinecote Pavilion, Crosby Arboretum in Picayune.

John Allen Smith photographer, musician, naturalist, forester, teacher, social worker and traveler—now serves with the Mississippi Wildflower program, "Homo-chitto Outdoors," in Meadville. He calls himself a fanatic about natural beauty. His award-winning photographs and calendars of the flora and fauna of Mississippi are big hits (even his booth at a nurseryman's convention was voted the best). He has been nominated to serve as a board member of an influential wildflower organization, the National Wildflower Research Center in Texas.

Mississippi horticulturist and author, Felder Rushing states: "John Allen contracts with growers for pure seeds (no hybrids), has available packs of many individual plant seeds, has developed a free Southern Wildflower Guide for our state, and is motivated by an outraged conservation ethic.'

This program is offered free of charge to members of the arboretum. A donation of $2 for adults, $1 for children under 12 and $5 for families is requested of those who are not members. The public is invited to attend.

ASK US!

WILL FRANK HILLE'S SERVICE PROTECT MY NEW CAR

WARRANTY?

YES! This maintenance may be done at any automotive service or repair establishment, not only the car manufacturer's dealership, it is essential when changing oil that you use only the quality and viscosity recommended in your owner's manual. Most 1980 and newer cars, for example, require SF/CC or SF/CD quality oil.

Frank Hille only sells oils, lubricants and filters that meet the specifications of every domestic and foreign car manufacturer.

Car manufacturers recommend frequent oil changes as the best way to reduce engine wear, expand engine life and to provide greater fuel economy. Regular maintenance including oil changes, as specified in your owner's manual, is necessary to protect your new car warranty. We also recommend that you save your receipts with your car warranty booklet. This proof of regular maintenance will satisfy your warranty requirements and can increase the resale value of your car.

ELECT

SUPERVISOR DISTRICT FOUR

Jim has already proven he knows how to handle your tax dollars by promoting a totally self-supporting jail system, saving taxpayers over $400,000 each year! LET Jim Odom work to give you more jobs for your county - a sewage and water district that everyone can afford to use - and full-time "county fire protection" which will result in lower insurance premiums for everyone.

Jim Odom knows that the people of Hancock County want a better system of garbage disposal and trash collection and he will work hard to install that system. He also knows our citizens want improved streets and drainage and he will work to better our present system. There are federal dollars available for needed projects. Jim Odom will work hard to apply for them. Let him work for you by voting November 8 for Bishop reported results of a preliminary compilation of data collected by 393 volunteers in conjunction with the Take Pride Gulfwide Cleanup. Volunteers removed more than 16.7 tons of trash and litter from GINS beaches and marshes during the cleanup.

collected more than 11 additional tons of larger trash items in the one-day beach sweep. From Texas to Florida, 15,000 volunteers removed an estimated 400 tons from 863 miles of shoreline. Other materials tabulated for GINS zones were styrofoam, 20 percent; metal, 13 percent; glass, 10 percent; paper, 4 percent; wood, 2 percent; cloth, a fraction of 1 percent; and rubber, 1 percent. In a further breakdown by specific types of items, five categories emerged as items that showed up most often in trash collected; plastic caps and lids, 8 percent metal beverage cans, just under 8 percent; styrofoam pieces larger than a base-ball, 6 percent; plastic beverage bottles, 5 percent; and styrofoam cups, 5 percent.

Medical wastes recorded included 22 syringes and one intravenous bag and tubing. Volunteers documented eight syringes found on West Ship Island, one on East Ship, 10 on Horn and three on Petit Bois.

The breakdown of trash categories is based on volunteers' tally of trash items bagged during the cleanup and reflects percentages of the total number of items recorded shoreline, bagged approximate-ly 34 tons of trash and litter and Bishop said. In GINS and other Mississippi zones, volunteers were asked to record data on at least one bag per each two, person team.

The National Center for Environmental Education is compiling final statistics for all Mississippi cleanup zones and will include Mississippi data in the newly established national marine debris database.

Removing marine debris which threatens our marine life and the beauty of our beaches is a constant challenge at Gulf Islands National Seashore," noted GINS Superintendent Jerry Eubanks. "One way to eliminate trash in the Gulf of Mexico is to make people aware of the problems. We are encouraged by the interest and concern that over 1,200 people have shown by their participation in Mississippi's Take Pride Gulfwide cleanup."

The coastwide cleanup was spearheaded by the Mississippi Marine Trash Task Force comprised of representatives of the Bureau of Marine Resources, Chevron U.S.A. Organizers cited the enthusiasm of the volunteers and the support of coastal business, industry, government and civicorganizations for the event's success. A major factor in the islands' cleanup was the availability of large boats for ferrying workers to and from barrier and nearshore islands and transporting trash back from the islands. In addition to the U.S. Marine amphibious vehicle, large boats volunteered were the 100-foot crew boat Chip V, Dantzler Boat and Barge Company; M/V Jay, Johnny Templeton Services; Wedidit, Jerry Purdy; Sailfish, Sailfish Shrimping Tour of Biloxi; King Arthur, Captain Ronald Baker; Island Clipper, Pan American Excursion Boats of Gulfport; and the Doris M, Hancock

When our next Congressman knocks on the President's door, will he get an answer?

A big part of any Congressman's job is making friends in high places. The kind of friends who can help him get things done for the people back home in his district.

Larkin Smith is no stranger in Washington. Congressmen and Senators know his name from his work with Capitol Hill committees. Even the President of the United States has turned to Larkin Smith for advice on waging his war on drugs.

Larkin Smith knows how to open doors in Washington. So when he goes to Congress we'll have someone representing us who can work closely with the people in charge.

On November the 8th, let's send America our best. Let's send Larkin Smith to the United States Congress.

or citizens' PAC endorses Taylor for Congress ie nation's largest senior miltee has endorsed Gene Taylor in his bid for Mississippi's Fifth District seat in the U.S.

Congress. The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and care, the programs that seniors Medicare announced the need to keep body and soul endorsement through spokes-man James Roosevelt, son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who started Social Security in the 1930s.

"I trust Gene Taylor to protect Social Security and Meditogether," Roosevelt said.

"Gene Tayulor needs our help to get to Washington, and we need his help in Congress," the 80-year-old former congressman said.

Taylor is among the 292 candidates for national office endorsed by the committee's PAC in the past few weeks. The Washington-based group chose the candidates, both Republicans and Democrats, according to their records on senior citizen issues, Roosevelt said.

"We know from Gene Taylor's time in the state house and from our conversations with him, that he will stand by the seniors in Washington, D.C.," Roosevelt said.

"The 101st Congress will without any doubt see a move to increase Medicare premiums, a fight over long-term care proposals and another look at the seniors' only income tax that is hidden in the Catastrophic Care legislation," he said. "We have tough battles ahead of us this coming year, and we need an energetic, experienced fighter in our corner. I am convinced that Gene Taylor is the man," he said.

Taylor voiced his "pleasure

With Chappy 10000000

hanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's . . . Family, Friends, and Food . . . The Holiday Season is Here!

Create holiday magic in your kitchen this year and make it healthy. Hancock Medical Center is hosting Healthy Holiday Cooking, a free class with local culinary expert, Chef Chappy.

Learn how to prepare a variety of holiday dishes, low in salt and cholesterol but full of Cajun flair and mouthwatering goodness. The program will be hosted by Hancock Medical Center consulting dietitian, Jami Rodenbaugh, MS,RD.

Chappy will demonstrate tasty holiday recipes even heart patients can enjoy.

The courses will cover basic nutrition principles and ways to modify favorite holiday recipes to be healthy, but retain delightful taste.

Participants will receive copies of all recipes, and will sample the delicacies created by the locally famous chef.

The class will be Thursday, November 10. at 6:30 p.m. at Hancock Medical Center in the cafeteria. Participants must make reservations by Monday, November 7, as seating will be limited. Call 467-9081, extension 2200, today to reserve your spot for "Healthy Holiday Cooking."

Mississippi teachers' convention to feature quality, professionalism

The annual convention of the Mississippi American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, will be held Friday through Sunday, Nov. 4-6, at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park campus in Long Beach.

Theme for the convention is "Growing in Professionalism" and will feature the newest ideas in employee relations and structuring of positions in the education field.

The nationally recognized school districts leading in these endeavors include Rochester, N.Y. and Dade County, Fla. Representatives of these school districts will address delegates throughout the convention.

On Friday evening, the speaker for the generel assembly will be Tom Gillett, chief negotiator for the Rochester AFT. This union has won national attention by collaborating with business and community organizations in order to restructure the school system to better meet the needs of all students.

The highly successful endeavor has designed teaching positions with salaries of $35,000 to $70,000, drawing teachers from across the nation who want the opportunity to be part of a professional team that is changing the face of education in addition to being well compensated.

On Saturday morning, the featured speaker will be Cliff Herman. Herman, principal of Olympia Heights Elementary School in the Dade County School District, is a strong proponent of quality circles.

Quality Circles is a concept which utilizes the ideas of all employees in order to solve the probelms and encourage the progress of the school and its pupils. The concept has proven so successful in Dade that all schools in the system are now using it with startling results. Herman will explain the concept, its adaption to the school environment, and field questions from teachers, paraprofes-

Sea Grant sponsors fellowship competition

The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium is sponsoring a fellowship competition for graduate students enrolled at consortium member institutions, Dr. James I. Jones, Sea Grant director, has announced.

Consortium members in Mississippi are the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Mississippi State University, University of Mississippi and University of Southern Mississippi, Alabama members are Auburn University, University of Alabama, University of Alabama at Birmingham and University of South Alabama.

Graduate students may propose coastal or marine-related research programs for a summer, a semester, an academic year (Sept.-May) or a full 12-month year to begin June 1989. The deadline for applications is Jan. 15, 1989.

*Fellowship candidates must be United States citizens. Selection is based on the design of proposed research and other criteria. Application materials are available from the dean of the graduate school, student financial aid offices and Sea Grant administrative offices.

Send submissions to Dr. James I. Jones, director, Mississipi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, P.O. Box 7000, Ocean Springs, MS 39564-7000. For information contact Sea Grant education specialist Sharon H. Walker at 875-9341.

An element of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration within the U.S. Department of Commerce, Sea Grant promotes the understanding and wise use and development of marine and coastal resources through research, education and public service.

Medical Center names marketing coordinator

Deborah Vick has joined the staff of Hancock Medical Center, according to Phil Wolfe, administrator. As marketing coordinator, Vick will be responsible for promoting the county-owned primary care facility through educational programs, printed

tion of Pass Christian Membership is still open. announced this week the candidates in the annual race of the title of King Christian LVIV (54th) and his Queen

Alice Wittmann, president of the Carnival Association made the announcement at a champagne party on Tuesday evening. The contestants in team one are Dave Zeitfuss and Linda Emmel. Team two running mates are Mark Jenkins and Patricia Scarborough.

Zeitfuss is the owner of Educational Enterprise of Pass Christian. He is the father of three grown daughters. He attended Clarkson College of Technology and Southeastern College in Birmingham, Ala. Zeitfuss is an active member of the Henderson Point Volunteer Fire Department and of St. Paul's Carnival Association.

Emmel and her husband Joseph are the parents of a son, Scott. She has taught at St. Paul's School for four years. She is a graduate of LSUNO with a BS in physical education and has a master's degree from Mankato State University in Miss. Emmel is a member of St. Paul's PTO, The AAU, Mississippi Association of PE Teachers and St. Paul's Carnival Association.

Jenkins and his daughter Destin live on Derrick Road in Pass Christian. He is a graduate of Pass Christian Public Schools, Jenkins attended Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College. He is associated with his family's business, Southern Printing and Silk Screening of Pass Christian. He is active in Pass Christian Athletic Association, Pass Christian Elementary School PTA and is also a coach in the local soccer league.

Scarborough is married to Grady (Buddy) Scarborough who was King Christian LVII. Their children are Kimberly, Shelly and Allen Jr. She is a graduate of Gulfport High School and attended Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College where she received an emergency medical technician degree. Scarborough is employed by G. R. Robinson and Physical Measurements Inc. of Metairie, La. She is active in the Pass Christian Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary and St. Paul's Carnival Association.

The first Carnival activities begin on the weekend of Nov. 11, 12 and 13. The countdown for king will take place Jan. 23. The Mardi Gras ball will be Feb. 4 and the annual parade on Feb. 5. Theme of this year's ball and parade is 'Games People Play. Doubloons are available from

eeping the faith

Collins fulfilling POW dreams by seeking seat in Congress

By Supriel J. Hodges

While being held a prisoner of war 71/2 years at the hands of North Vietnamese captors, he thought of how he could better serve people in America.

He kept the faith in America and set his sights on a seat in Congress. And now, after 23 years. he's on the campaign trail for the 4th Congressional District seat.

After beating out five opponents for the Republican nomination, including a defeat of Jackson attorney Andy Taggart in the March 29 runoff - Collins, a Utica native, said the momentum is still going.

Collins said he formulated the idea to run for Congress while a POW and never let go of fulfilling that dream.

(Reprinted from the 1955 Utica High School Annual)

While serving as an Air Force fighter pilot in 1965 his plane was shot down by the North Vietnamese behind enemy lines. He was a prisoner until 1973.

"I realized the value of serving the people back home," he said. "And the best way I could serve the people is as a congressional represen-

Collins said he held tight to that dream and continued thinking of pursuing a congressional office while earning his master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi.

"Why hadn't I run?" Collins asked. "Well, I was busy with other jobs.

"I can truly say that I am not obligated now - I'm in the traditional theory of representing," said Collins, who describes the job of a congressman as a service job.

"It's representing views and values of the people — listening," Collins said. "It's leadership abilities - and I have the ability to go to Washington and represent the views and values of the people I am to represent."

Collins faces Democratic nominee Mike Parker of Brookhaven and independent candidate Liz Gilchrist in the Nov. 8 election.

While serving in the Air Force, he learned a lot about the world and a lot about people and "I learned things that it's important for a congressman to know," he said.

In addition to serving in the armed forces, Collins grew up on a farm. He said those factors and his educational background are important when holding a political office. His father was a farmer and his mother a teacher. He married his high school sweetheart, also the daughter of a farmer.

Collins and his wife, Donnie, have two sons, Marty, who is enrolled in officer candidate school with the U.S. Army; and Ted; a third year medical student at University Medical Center in Jackson.

"My parents still live on the cattle farm in Utica - I live about 15 miles away in Byram." said Collins, adding that he is the oldest of four children. "We all still have an interest in it we still run our family farm."

According to Collins, that makes a difference. "I have supporters who are farmers, veterans, attorneys and businessmen - I know people of all statues of life and I can represent them."

While serving in the Air Force, Collins said he received some of the highest awards and medals. "That's important to a lot of people it's been proven and tested - but more important is my education."

He attended several national defense schools geared toward top-level management.

"I spent a lot of my time in education - I got my masters degree after I came from Vietnam and my MBA from Southern."

Collins was a professor of aerospace education at USM and also was ROTC chief of curriculum over 238 schools worldwide.

He started a real estate and investment business in Jackson and later became director of the Mississippi Veterans Home Purchase

"My whole career has been involved in public life - I'm used to serving the public as a military officer and director of state agency." he said.

Congratulations on your decision to seek to represent Dear Thomas:

1988 is an election year as important as any our Nation has faced this century. Will we continue the progress we have made these past seven and a half years, or will we nave made these past seven and a natt years, or with we return to the days of a sour economy, weak defenses and, most important, a loss of national purpose?

As Republicans, you and I have strong convictions about the values that make America great. Hard work, faith, family, and a dedication to our country are not just words with us, we live them every day.

Serving your country as an elected official is a noble calling, and not an easy one. I compliment you on your willingness to make the sacrifice that public service

The Republican Party is going to have a good year in 1988. The American people are going to elect George Bush President. And because more and more voters recognize it's time for new leadership in the halls of Congress, we are going to elect more Republicans to the House of Representatives. Our Nation needs you in the Congress.

"Less Government Best Government...

"Those years I spent as a military officer a representative of the military are just like a U.S. representative - a representative of this country."

With all that under his belt and his sights set on Congress, that makes campaigning that much easier.

"I'm very sensitive to people and I'm just not happy unless I'm out there working with people - that's what's made campaigning so enjoyable," he said. "The way I've chosen to run my campaign is go out and meet people."

According to Collins the campaign is going well.

He describes his campaign as a peopleoriented, grassroots campaign.

"I've been working hard all summer - I've got an organization in all 15 counties - treating rural areas as well as urban," he said. "My helpers complain that I'm always in the country store - seldom pass a country crossroad because I know somebody there and I'll stop and talk awhile.

"I'm using most forms of campaigning tremendous media, which is fortunate and unfortunatre - that's where campaign financing becomes so important."

Collins said the goal of his campaign is for all the voters to get to know Thomas Collins his background, his experience, education and his position on the issues.

"And as it looks now I'll have plenty of money to get it done," said Collins, who added that most of his campaign funds have come from within the district and the state.

He noted that he has full support from the National Republican Congressional Committee. "Most of my money is flowing in ahead of my budget - I'm really proud of the non-partisan financial support. The state Republicans have given me full backing," he said. At the top of the candidate's list of issues is economic development in the 4th District. "We're not only behind nationally but internationally - we're lagging in the state - I've got great concern about that and I strongly believe it doesn't have to stay that way.

He said the job of a congressman is to provide leadership and be the economic development team leader. "So that's my number one priority."

With economic development, Collins said quality education must be emphasized.

"It's our greatest resource - people needing jobs and better education," he explained. "I've grown up knowing that - I've taught, so I understand the importance of education especially when it relates to economics. "I'll always put America first and the 4th District first in America — I say that every time I speak."

Colling confers with Vice President Bush.

"I am asking for your vote for one of the finest Congressional candidates in America and a strong supporter of myself and President Reagan. Thomas Collins represents some of the finest traditions of the Republican Party. He shares with me a strong belief in the importance of family values, a deep compassion for others and an abiding faith and er, entermined This election is over which party will set the course for America's destiny in the decade to come. Tom has the integrity and the ability to be one of the finest Congressmen that Mississippi has ever seen, and to help our Party chart that course. Please give him your vote on Election Day."

> -VICE PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH

Collins said he's committed to not raising taxes: "I think that would hurt our small business development in Mississippi and I believe that reduced federal spending is a must to enhance economic development."

Collins also believes in sound conservative, common sense business principles in government and is quick to note that less federal government is usually better federal government.

"Most Mississippians are proud of their country," Collins said. "Most Mississippians are aware that freedom is very dear, but doesn't come free. If we keep America strong - that's the way to stay at peace."

THOMAS COLLINS

"I need your vote!"

On Tuesday, November 8th, you have an important decision to make.

You will go to the polls and make the decision who will be your next president. You will also be making a choice as to who will serve you in the U.S. Senate.

But I'm asking you to think seriously about who you will select to represent you in Congress.

- - * Air Force Fighter Pilot * Vietnam P.O.W. (over 7 years)
 - Masters Degree (Business) U.S.M. * Professor of Aerospace Education (U.S.M.)

 - Government Experience (Director Mississippi Veterans Small Businessman (Real Estate)
 - Home Purchase Board)

All I ask, is that you examine the records and backgrounds of the candidates running in this race. If you trust that I will go to Washington and represent your beliefs and feelings, please give me your vote on Tuesday, November 8th!

YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE!
